Where is My Social Security Statement?

Like many of you, I was wondering if the Social Security Administration lost my address. I noticed the Annual Earnings Statement along with an estimated benefit has not been sent out in several years. It is like many other financial instruments, it is all On-Line now. Go to: ssa.gov/myaccount. It takes a few minutes to log in, but once logged in, I found the information to be helpful. You can view (check) past earnings and an estimate of benefits that you may be eligible for. The site is probably more helpful if you have not yet started to receive social security.

Sincerely,

Andrew D. Wade, CFP®
